WSP USA INSPECTION SERVICES DISASTER AWARENESS REPORT

December 16, 2024

Weather Outlook

Northeast

- The FOX Forecast Center said the Upper Midwest could be the only region that escapes major impacts from the storms this week.
- Other cities in the eastern half of the country should brace for periods of heavy rain and perhaps some winter weather, which could put the brakes on holiday travel.
- A cold front stretching from the Great Lakes to the southern Plains developing on Monday and moving off to the east before losing strength as it reaches the Northeast.
- Winter weather alerts are posted from Pennsylvania to the Northeast as rain, snow and perhaps some freezing rain move through on Monday.
- A stronger area of low pressure is expected to develop over the Tennessee Valley and bring a few inches of rain to parts of the lower Mississippi, Tennessee and Ohio valleys through midweek.
- It will then move off into the mid-Atlantic, spreading significant rain along its path.
- Wednesday even looks to be when the most significant impacts move into that region as the system slides offshore and intensifies.
