WSP USA INSPECTION SERVICES DISASTER AWARENESS REPORT

November 22, 2024

Flooding Activity California

- Northern California was slammed by an intense atmospheric river which is bringing extreme amounts of rain and snow to the area, as well as southern Oregon.
- Santa Rosa in Sonoma County was hit particularly hard by flooding on Thursday.
- The rain and snow are expected to continue throughout the weekend.
- This atmospheric river is part of the weather pattern that spawned this week's deadly bomb cyclone.
- The FOX Forecast Center said the event will be further enhanced by the development of another strong area of low pressure off the West Coast starting late Thursday.
- It will add additional moisture to the atmospheric river and expand the heavy rain into southern Oregon.
- Nearly 20 inches of rain has already fallen around Venado, and heavy rains are expected to persist into Friday. Another 3-6 inches is expected across the region, with isolated areas reaching 6-10 inches.
- The NWS warns that flooding on the Eel River near Fernbridge will have major impacts on the area.
- The National Weather Service reported nearly 20 landslides between Wednesday and Thursday.
