WSP USA INSPECTION SERVICES DISASTER AWARENESS REPORT

February 4, 2025

Winter Storm

Great Lakes & Northeast

- Millions of people from the Midwest to the Northeast are on alert as a developing winter storm is expected to bring a potentially crippling ice threat that could knock out power and lead to treacherous travel conditions across the region.
- The storm is expected to develop in the Plains on Wednesday and move into the Great Lakes region by Wednesday night. Warm air is expected to move in above a shallow layer of subfreezing air near the ground, and that will lead to a swath of impactful freezing rain that will fall from Iowa to New England.
- Winter weather alerts are in effect from the Midwest to the Northeast, and the Thursday morning commute from Chicago to Boston could be extremely treacherous.
