WSP USA INSPECTION SERVICES DISASTER AWARENESS REPORT

April 7, 2022

Severe Weather & Tornado Activity

- At least three people were killed in the Southern US from severe weather this week. Fatalities were reported in the states of Georgia, Louisiana, and Texas.
- This latest outbreak kicked off Monday in Texas, then spawned a rash of tornadoes Tuesday and Wednesday across the Deep South from Mississippi into Alabama, Georgia and South Carolina.
- This included a deadly downburst of straight-line thunderstorm winds after midnight Tuesday in Whitehouse, Texas, and a deadly, tornado of at least EF3 intensity late Tuesday afternoon in Bryan County, Georgia.
- Over 320 reports of severe weather have been received by the National Weather Service since Monday from Oklahoma and Texas to South Carolina.
- National Weather Service offices from Alabama to South Carolina will continue to survey damage over the next few days to determine how many tornadoes actually occurred and their intensities.
- In north Texas, three tornadoes were confirmed in the Dallas-Ft. Worth metro, including an EF1 tornado in Collin Co., an EF2 in Johnson County north of Egan, and a brief EF0 tornado also in Johnson County. Other significant damage was reported in Kaufman, Van Zandt, Smith and Rusk Counties in northeast Texas.
- Nine tornadoes were confirmed by the NWS in Mississippi, including an EF2 tornado in Jefferson Davis and Collins Counties.
- In Alabama, an EF2 tornado tore a 12-mile path through parts of Pike and Montgomery Counties, according to an NWS survey.
- In Georgia, tornadoes were sighted by spotters in Early and Baker Counties and damage was considered likely from a tornado by the NWS in Dooly County.
- Georgia declared a state of emergency on Wednesday, April 6.
- At least 13 tornadoes appeared to have touched down in South Carolina.
