WSP USA INSPECTION SERVICES DISASTER AWARENESS REPORT

November 1, 2023

Tropical Activity

Atlantic – Disturbance 1

- Environmental conditions could become more conducive for development in the next day or two.
- The NHC says a tropical depression could form once the system moves into the southwestern Caribbean Sea late in the week.
- If the system develops and contains sustained winds of at least 39 mph, it will be named Tropical Storm Vince.
- Regardless of development, this system has the potential to produce heavy rain over portions of Central America late this week and into the weekend.
- Formation chance through 48 hours: Low (20%); 7-days: Medium (50%)
