WSP USA INSPECTION SERVICES DISASTER AWARENESS REPORT

August 2, 2024

Tropical Activity

Atlantic – Invest 97L

- While the ultimate destination of Invest 97L remains unclear, it seems that the tropical disturbance is headed for the Gulf of Mexico.
- Florida Governor Ron DeSantis declared a state of emergency Thursday ahead of a tropical disturbance brewing in the Caribbean.
- According to the NHC, the tropical wave is producing a large area of disorganized showers and thunderstorms over Hispaniola, the southeastern Bahamas, eastern Cuba and the adjacent waters of the southwestern Atlantic Friday morning.
- The wave is expected to move near or over Cuba throughout the day Friday and then emerge over the Straits of Florida by Friday night or Saturday, the NHC notes.
- "Environmental conditions are expected to be conducive for additional development after that time, and a tropical depression is likely to form this weekend over the Straits of Florida or eastern Gulf of Mexico near the Florida Peninsula," the agency said.
- Tropical Storm Watches or Warnings could be required for portions of Florida later Friday, the NHC advises.
- Regardless of development, heavy rains could cause areas of flash flooding across Florida, Cuba and the Bahamas through the weekend, and anyone living or visiting these locations should continue to monitor the progress of this system.
- The FOX Forecast Center said showers and thunderstorms are already tearing off from the center of the tropical disturbance and impacting southern portions of Florida on Friday morning.
- Initial forecasts show 3-6 inches of rain or more for Florida and eventually up the southeastern U.S. coast.
