Tropical Activity

Central Pacific – Tropical Storm Hone

- This system had organized enough to be declared Tropical Storm Hone – the first in the Central Pacific.
- Hone is about 700 miles east-southeast of Hilo, Hawaii, and moving on a westerly trajectory.
- On the forecast track, the center of Hone is expected to pass near or south of the Big Island on Saturday night into Sunday.
- Due to the potential for the cyclone to venture close to the state, a Tropical Storm Watch has been issued for coastal areas of the Big Island.
- While the storm is likely to track south of the Big Island, its moisture will lead to tropical downpours across the windward side of the Hawaiian Islands. These downpours could trigger flash flooding and mudslides.
- Forecasters expect 4-8 inches of rainfall on the southern portions of the Big Island and 2-4 inches of precipitation in mountainous regions on other small islands.
