WSP USA INSPECTION SERVICES DISASTER AWARENESS REPORT

February 16, 2023

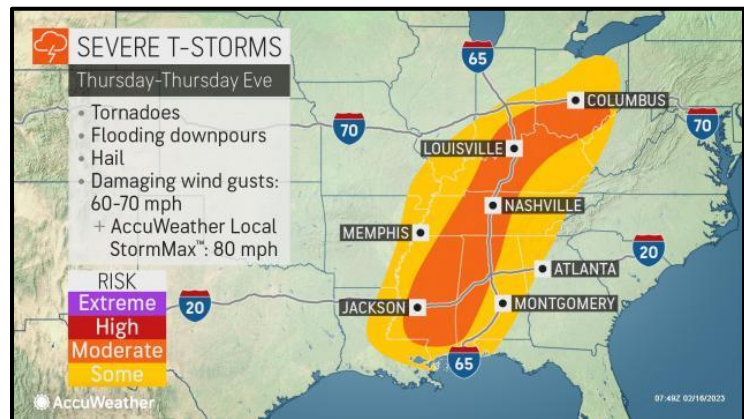

Mid-South Tornado Watch

- Early Thursday morning, a tornado watch was issued for parts of Arkansas, Illinois, Kentucky, Mississippi and Tennessee.
- The watch went into effect just before 5 a.m. CST and will continue until 12 p.m. CST, unless otherwise noted.
- Damaging wind gusts up to 70 mph, hail up to 2-inches in size and a few isolated tornadoes are possible.
- In addition to the tornado threat, severe storms could also feature frequent lightning and flash flooding.

Severe Weather Outlook

- More than 40 million people from the Gulf Coast to the Great Lakes will be at risk for severe weather on Thursday, AccuWeather forecasters warn.
- The greatest threats from the storms will be damaging wind gusts, hail, torrential downpours and even isolated tornadoes.
- Winds, ranging from 60-70 mph, are likely to knock over trees since the ground is moist and in some cases saturated from recent rounds of rain and storms.
- This could result in numerous power outages across Ohio, southern Indiana, Kentucky, West Virginia and perhaps into western parts of Pennsylvania and New York.
- Heavy rain can suddenly reduce visibility for motorists and lead to flash flooding of streams and urban areas.
