Declaration Request

Michigan

- Michigan Governor Gretchen Whitmer has requested that President Trump declare a major disaster for the state as a result of the heavy rainfall and flooding that happened in Wayne County from April 30-May 3.
- Her request is for Individual Assistance to help eligible residents recover from the severity of the flooding. The city of Dearborn Heights was among those hardest hit by the floods.
- Whitmer declared a state of emergency for Wayne County on May 3, with the widespread flooding reportedly damaging 3,000 homes in the county.

Severe Storm Activity

Texas

- Just over 100,000 Oncor customers, most in Dallas County, are still without power in North Texas Tuesday morning after a severe thunderstorm blew through the region Sunday.
- "This storm was really unique because we saw damage akin to something we'd see with a tropical storm or a tornado. But instead of a small area, we're seeing a very large portion of Dallas County with major damage," said Oncor spokesperson and meteorologist Jen Myers.
- The storm damage is also keeping insurance agents busy. More than 6,000 claims have been filed since Sunday, according to the Insurance Council of Texas.
- Dallas County Judge Clay Jenkins said Monday that a claim for federal disaster relief is being considered.
- "Emergency inspectors are out now gathering information, and I'm encouraging everybody to get it back as soon as they can," he said.
- Further south in Copperas Cove, an EF2 tornado touched down Sunday evening causing damage to 196 homes.
