WSP USA INSPECTION SERVICES DISASTER AWARENESS REPORT

February 16, 2022

Declaration Request Update Florida

- The Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) has denied a request for emergency assistance for Lee and Charlotte County residents impacted by recent tornadoes.
- The Florida Division of Emergency Management (DEM) plans to appeal the decision.
- The National Weather Service confirmed two EF-1 tornadoes touched down in Charlotte County on Jan. 16, and an EF-2 touched down in Lee County the same day, according to NBC-2.
- Immediately following the tornadoes, state emergency officials deployed disaster recovery staff to the impacted counties to conduct preliminary damage assessments with county officials, FEMA and the U.S. Small Business Administration.
- These assessments determined 158 homes were destroyed or sustained major damage.
- Gov. Ron DeSantis declared a state of emergency in Lee and Charlotte counties on Jan. 21.
- The state Emergency Management division on Jan. 24 requested help under the Individual Assistance programs run by FEMA, including the Individuals and Households program, Disaster Case Management, Crisis Counseling and Training program, Disaster Legal Services and Disaster Unemployment Assistance.
- FEMA officials ruled the damage from the storm was not extensive enough to warrant federal response.
